- board on week-days.

Academic program:

The system of the Russian language, literature and cultural studies provided by Kursk State University helps to easily overcome language and cultural barriers.

Students are placed in groups depending on their level of language proficiency according to results of a placement test, taken on the first program day.

Classes are conducted by highly qualified native-speaker instructors, who have been certified to teach Russian as a foreign language. All instructors have an extensive experience of teaching Russian as a foreign language.

Teaching in English is available.

Extracurricular program:

The program includes various excursions and field trips to sites of historical and cultural interest in Kursk and its environs.

Accommodation

Students stay in a dormitory, located within walking distance to the university. Double and triple rooms are provided. There is a shared kitchen available.

Cost

The cost of the program depends on the number of students per group and the overall number of groups. The advisable number of students per group is 10 people.

The cost of the course includes tuition, fees, accommodation, three meals per day on week days, group excursions and field trips.

Additional costs: airfare, visa fee, and personal expenses.
